Reference for Markus Stocker

Dear Sir or Madam,

Markus Stocker, born on 26th July 1979, from Ettiswil (Lucerne, Switzerland) has been an active member of the executive group of LionsExchange since 2003 and, as an expert in computer science, he has been involved in our Information Technology (IT) group and responsible for multiple projects, especially the online platform LionsContact (www.lionscontact.ch), a business fair for senior and graduate students organised by LionsExchange on a yearly basis since 2004.

LionsExchange has been an active student association at the University of Zurich since 1999 and provides various services for students, especially (but not limited to) for students from the Economics and Business Administration Department. Our goal is to lower the knowledge asymmetry among students by means of a framework that aims to enhance cooperation. Further, LionsExchange provides a range of projects to students that are interested to gain first practical and business experiences, especially in project management and solution development. LionsExchange actively supports and advises those students in all project phases.

As a member of our executive group, Markus Stocker has been involved in strategic planning for LionsExchange. Further, due to his IT expertise, he has been actively involved in the design and development of core IT solutions that are highly valued by both team members and our business partners.

We thank Markus Stocker for his work so far and we wish him best luck for his work experience in the US, looking forward to welcoming him back next year and hoping that LionsExchange can further rely on his expertise and work.

Yours faithfully

Paolo Pamini
